

Moshe's Picks

3M's AOS Safety Glasses:

After destroying yet another set of overly expensive sunglasses last season, I discovered 3M's line of stylish AOS safety glasses available at major hardware store chains. Though priced for the budget conscious at under $25.00 per pair (including microfiber bag / lens wipe), these shades offer all the functional benefits a motorcyclist could wish for. The frames are extremely light weight, the rubber coated arms and nose bridge very comfortable, and as safety glasses their polycarbonate lenses absorb 99.9% UV and meet the high impact requirements of ANSI Z87.1-2003. Best of all, they are available in a large variety of styles to meet nearly any rider's tastes. See your local hardware retailer.

Machineart's Avant Mudsling

Andrew Serbinski's avant-garde accessories for the BMW R1200GS are admired for their futuristic style, quality and functionality. I recently spotted a butched-out GS Adventure sporting this Avant front fender extension, and was impressed with its OEM look and its 5.25" greater coverage. Installation involves no drilling, and the Avant does a fantastic job protecting the motor and header pipes from road debris kicked up by the front tire. Model AV-12 for R1200GS is $79.00.

www.machineart.com

BMW Pro Winter 2 Gloves

After wearing these gloves for the past two winters, I'm very impressed! When it's not quite cold enough to fire up the heated gloves, these are just the ticket. Made of hydrophobic goat leather and Cordura® 300 with a Gore-Tex membrane, they're water- and wind-proof, yet still breathe well enough to avoid any funky smells typical of long days in winter gloves. Although toasty in cold temps, they are not bulky and still allow great control feel and work well with heated grips. The gauntlet pull ensures a tight fit, and the reflective material is a nice safety touch. $145.00

www.bmw-riders-gear.com

